

Company Factsheet

Multilizer Oy (Espoo, Finland) is a software company developing integrated software globalization technology for enterprises, accelerating their global software business.

Using technology developed by Multilizer, user interfaces and contents of PC, mobile/PDA and Internet software can be quickly and efficiently localized to operate in users' own language.

Over the years Multilizer has introduced various innovations, such as multi-user Translation Memory, database localization and Pseudo translation to all character sets, to the markets.

MULTILIZER® 6.1 offers a complete solution for localizing Windows, Mobile and Internet applications. Visual editors for dialogs, menus and other resources ensure that translations are done in correct context. Almost 20 automated validation methods speed up the quality assurance phase. Multilizer Translation Memory includes fuzzy matching, close-to matches and perfect matches. It can be stored on a database server, which enables multi-user functionality. Multilizer is scalable and easy to adopt in both small and large organizations. It includes all the tools needed by developers, translators and project managers for simultaneous shipping of language versions for different target markets.

Value proposition. Multilizer technology and partner services help enterprises achieve shorter Time-to-Global-Market, cut software internationalization project costs, and achieve more consistent and higher quality for international releases of their software. ROI is usually less than 6 months, sometimes only weeks.

Customer base. More than 4500 users in over 60 countries worldwide have taken MULTILIZER software globalization technology in use since 1996. The customer base includes international software companies like ABB, Baan, e-Help, Intel Corp., Compaq, Nokia, Siemens, Ericsson Mobile Communications, Lucent Technologies and Xerox. Multilizer has 40 partners in 25 countries.

Ownership Multilizer is a privately held company and is headquartered in Espoo, Finland and has sales offices in the USA.
